

Case Study

EDITING BUILDS SOLID FOUNDATION FOR PROPERTY REPORTS

Client

A leading property management company

ABOUT OUR CLIENT

This leading property management company is the world's largest provider of commercial real estate strategy, services, and support to organisations.

MYL's MISSION

Editing English text in real-time to improve grammar and readability across twelve Asia-Pacific countries.

OUR SOLUTION

This leading property management company has over a dozen research offices in Asia-Pacific and is a leading provider of research to investors and institutions. Timely and accurate delivery of the company's research reports is essential.

MYL was responsible for editing the English-language reports produced by its research staff, whose first language was not English. The work was edited for grammatical accuracy by an editor who was skilled and familiar with the property domain. This freed its senior research staff from reviewing and revising the English grammar in the reports. The senior team instead focused on checking the accuracy of facts and adding the finishing touches to produce the quality reports expected by its corporate customers.

RESULTS

The meticulous attention to editing, fact-checking, and other details by MYL ensured that the reports were of a consistently high standard across the organisation.

mylGlobal.com